It is my proud privilege to announce the publication of Volume No. 6 and Issue No. 2 of “Brainwave: A Multidisciplinary Journal”, published by Brainware University, West Bengal, India. Articles submitted for favour of publication are double blinded peer reviewed by reviewers of repute. In that way, only the articles possessing novel ideas are accepted for publication in the Journal. This issue contains a diverse range of articles featuring innovative thinking in emerging areas. I am of firm belief that the published articles in this issue will be beneficial to the researchers.

Again, it is my pleasure to acknowledge the reviewers and the members of both editorial board and editorial advisory board for their excellent work in this context. I am also thankful to the contributing authors.

Finally, I am grateful to the concerned stakeholders of the University, who worked tirelessly in order to ensure timely publication of the Journal.

We welcome submissions from around the globe in order to increase the diversity of the contributing authors. It is also relevant to mention in this connection that we have tried our level best to maintain the quality, accessibility and visibility of the Journal. Still, if the readers feel that there is room for improvement, constructive suggestions from them will be translated into practice.
